

"THE JOURNAL OF EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY" is published by the BANCA DI ROMA, Roma, three times a year, in Spring, Fall and Winter.

The Journal is devoted to the study of the economic history of Europe and of the various European countries; to the study of the impact of the economic history of other continents, or countries, upon the history of Europe or of different countries and times; to the analysis of the problems and themes which shed light on the economic history of Europe or of its various countries; to the theory of economic history; to European economic historiography. Contributions are invited. The Journal welcomes preliminary versions of research findings and research hypotheses in the interest of provoking constructive and fruitful discussion; and it is always glad to consider shorter notes, rejoinders, communications and items for notes and book reviews.

DETAILS OF STYLE FOR MANUSCRIPTS OF ARTICLES AND BOOK REVIEWS TO BE PUBLISHED IN THE JOURNAL.

1. Footnotes, references, graphs, statistical tables etc: if tables or graphs are to appear in the text in the published version, the relevant indications should be made.
2. Number and quantities: in all figures and statistical tables, the English conventions for expressing decimals and thousands should be adopted (i.e. 0.5 = decimal point 5; 1,000 = one thousand). Terms for volumes and quantities not normally used in English or where the similar English term has a different value, should be written out in full or in a standard abbreviation indicated in the first reference.
3. Presentation of titles of books and articles:
J.A. Schumpeter, Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy, (London 1943)
H.E. Kyburg Jr., "Keynes as a Philosopher", in A.F. Cottrell and M.S. Lawdor (eds), New Perspectives on Keynes, (Dulham, N.C. 1995), pp.7-32.
N.F.R. Crafts 'Income elasticities of demand and the release of labour by agriculture during the British Industrial Revolution', Journal of European Economic History 9.1 (1980), pp. 53-168.
4. Abbreviations: wherever possible, standard abbreviations for sources or publications with lengthy titles frequently referred to should be set out separately above the footnotes.
5. Quotations and comments in footnotes: as far as possible quotations and comments in footnotes should be avoided. Where they are considered as indispensable, they should be separated from bibliographical references so that they may be inserted without disturbing the ms: e.g.
